

Activated air reservists far away from war zones

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of the Reserve airmen summoned to active duty in the first flush of the USS Pueblo crisis are beginning to wonder when, where and whether they will be sent to a combat zone.

Some of the 14,600 suspect now that if they engage in any fighting it will be in Vietnam, not North Korea.

There is speculation that a main reason for the Jan. 25 call-up was to free home-based active duty units for use overseas.

The Pentagon declines to provide any hint of what is to come.

A spokesman asked the Defense Department whether any of the Reservists have been deployed overseas, if so which units and if not what the units are doing.

A Pentagon spokesman replied: "We do not discuss deployment of men, aircraft, vessels or units."

A survey of the bases where the Reservists are serving indicated, however, that so far none has received foreign shipping orders.

In general, the units appear to be training on a daily basis as they used to on weekends.

Many of the Reservists spend their nights on their assigned bases and then hurry off to after-hours moonlighting jobs to help support their families.

Most of those interviewed insisted that morale was good, but quite a number said it was fraying around the edges.

Lt. Charles Harrison, a 33-year-old commercial airlines pilot in civilian life, whose unit is at New York's Floyd Bennett Field, told a reporter Tuesday: "We've just been coming out here to work every day. I finally flew my first flight yesterday. They don't quite know what to do with us. I find it quite frustrating. There seems to be a feeling we'll be used to supplement forces in Vietnam."

More cheerful was Lt. Cmdr.

"The morale of my men is great," he declared. "We're working hard, flying and conducting normal daily and squadron operations. Everybody took the call-up well. After all, it's what we had to expect as Reservists."

S. Sgt. Jerry Psenka, called up with the 445th Military Airlift Wing of the Air Force and sent to Debbing Air Force Base in Marietta, Ga., said "the attitude of most of the guys is that they have a job to do."

"The last time the unit was called it was a 30-day call-up," Psenka added. "We don't expect this one to be so short."

10,500 U.S. troops war-bound

Allies battle holdouts

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces fought Communist holdouts at Saigon and Hue Wednesday and braced for a new Red offensive with the prospect of swift reinforcement by 10,500 fresh U.S. Army and Marine combat troops.

The Defense Department in Washington announced the United States is rushing in the additional servicemen "for insurance purposes" in compliance with a request from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam.

The announcement came about 24 hours after President Nguyen Van Thieu had said more U.S. troops would be needed to bring the war to a quick end. Thieu told newsmen Monday: "We can hold them (the Communists). But to end the war faster is another matter."

The United States already has more than 500,000 servicemen in Vietnam. A level of 525,000 is authorized and the 10,500 will leave this number still to be realized.

Routes shelled

Allied batteries heavily shelled suspected Communist troop concentrations and routes of enemy movement around Saigon early Wednesday in which artillerymen call "H and I," "harassment and interdiction" fire. Explosions rattled windows.

The predawn barrages followed up the closest strike of the war to Saigon by U.S. B52 Stratofortresses. The eight-engine jets, each of which can carry 30 tons of explosives, staged a saturation raid on a suspected enemy gathering only seven miles north-northwest of the capital.

While shooting incidents persisted in and around Saigon, the main battle action centered at Hue, the only one of the 35 cities in which the Communists maintained organized resistance to the allied counterattacks against their lunar new year offensive.

Burrowed within the grimy walls of Hue's Citadel, dodged Hanoi regulars repulsed a joint assault by U.S. and South Vietnamese marines Tuesday to hold out through the 15th day of the semioccupation. South Vietnamese army troops had been stalled after initial gains.

American Leathernecks, who have cleared the Communists from the city area south of the Perfume River, struck for the first time at the enemy forces in the Citadel, which makes up most of the north side of the former imperial capital.

Heavy small-arms, machine-gun and rocket fire drove back both them and the Vietnamese marines. They regrouped to try again later.

Decisions, decisions

Today is Valentine's Day, but Tuesday was a day of decision for Irving Karpe of Stroudsburg, left. He dropped by Counterman's Drug Store in East Stroudsburg to buy his wife a suitable gift and was overwhelmed by the number of gifts he was shown by Calvin Counterman.

Con-Con rejects proposal to tax public utilities

HARRISBURG (AP) — Constitutional Convention delegates rejected Tuesday two proposed amendments that would have removed the exemptions from real estate taxes now granted to Pennsylvania public utilities.

One amendment, introduced by delegate Blaine C. Hocker of Dauphin County, would have permitted the legislature to impose a uniform, state-wide real estate tax on the operating facilities of utility companies. The state would have distributed revenue from the tax to local municipalities.

Hocker's amendment was defeated by a 101-49 vote.

The second amendment, submitted by delegate William J. C. O'Donnell of Chester County, would have permitted local government units to levy real estate taxes on utility property now immune from such taxes. It was defeated by a 90-53 vote.

Both amendments were designed to replace a Taxation and State Finance Committee recommendation that would require the state to return to all local municipalities a portion of the gross receipts tax it collects from utilities.

Opponents of the committee proposal argued that it would harm rather than help the state's financial structure by knocking a hole in the state budget.

"This proposal would not be a tax on utilities, but a tax on the commonwealth," Hocker said, pointing out that any funds taken out of the gross receipts tax would create a deficit in the General Fund.

Delegates of the committee proposal, however, argued that a real estate levy would penalize utilities, which are the only firms that pay the gross receipts tax.

Moreover, they contended that the imposition of a real estate tax would only lead to higher rates for Pennsylvania's consumers.

Former state Sen. Robert P. Casey disputed this viewpoint, however.

"I am hard pressed to explain to consumers, who pay many taxes in addition to real estate taxes, why utilities should be exempt,"

Insurance against Reds second round

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is speeding an additional 10,500 Army and Marine ground fighters to South Vietnam as insurance against "second round" Communist city offensive and assault on the Khe Sanh bastion.

The Pentagon announced Tuesday that "in compliance with Gen. William C. Westmoreland's request we are deploying approximately 10,500 additional troops to South Vietnam."

The action raised the possibility that the United States may increase its planned troop ceiling in Vietnam beyond 525,000 and that National Guard and Reserve ground forces may be called to active duty.

The Pentagon said no decision has been made on either an over-all buildup in Vietnam or a reserve call-up, but it was apparent such steps are under study.

Asst. secretary of Defense Phil G. Goulding told newsmen the rapid shipment of the additional 10,500 ground troops is in response to a Westmoreland request received in "the last few days," and that they are being shipped for "insurance purposes."

He characterized the deployment as a speed-up, but said these troops fall within the 525,000 ceiling. There are now about 500,000 American servicemen in Vietnam.

Goulding said "evaluation will have to be made later" on whether to boost the 525,000 objective. He said Westmoreland has not asked for an increase over that number.

For more than six months, Army forces have been drawn from the lower part of South Vietnam into the northern I Corps to bolster Marine defenses against a series of Communist offensive thrusts along the demilitarized zone.

So far, the equivalent of two Army divisions, or about 30,000 men have been pulled into I Corps to support the 79,000 Marines there.

This process resulted last summer in a hike in the then-planned troop build-up objective of 470,000 to 525,000 to plug holes in U.S. deployments in the central highlands—a main avenue of infiltration and the region which centers around Saigon to the south.

Now the new Communist North Vietnamese concentration of perhaps 50,000 soldiers along the DMZ and near threatened Khe Sanh, together with the Viet Cong city offensive, which was sprung with unexpected ferocity and breadth, has put a further strain on U.S. ground combat resources in Vietnam.

Without saying so, Goulding indicated that some of the combat units now heading for Vietnam were not in the deployment plan originally—suggesting that they have displaced some support-type troops on the scheduled.

Union to admit Negroes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An agreement to admit more Negroes to building trades unions and to prohibit racial discrimination was reached Tuesday by 18 AFL-CIO unions and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

The unions, who have long been the target of racial discrimination charges, pledged to recruit young Negroes actively for union apprenticeship job training programs and to work with "responsible" civil rights groups to carry out the program.

Wirtz, in a letter, praised the agreement and said he will continue to carry out Labor Department antidiscrimination rules "without change or amendment."

The unions, who took final action on the agreement here Tuesday, previously had bitterly opposed proposals by some Labor Department officials to stiffen the regulations.

Wirtz also said that any conflict between government actions on antidiscrimination regulations of the Labor Department and actions of the office of Federal Contract Compliance, will be settled by Under Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds.

The Office of Federal Contract Compliance has authority to act against unions or companies engaged in federal contracting where there are complaints of racial discrimination.

Koreans tough with Vance

SEOUL (AP) — President Johnson's trouble shooter, Cyrus R. Vance, had "tough going" Tuesday in talks with South Korean leaders toward eliminating differences between the United States and its close Asian ally, Korean sources reported.

Vance planned yet another meeting with Chung Wednesday and was expected later in the day to pay his second visit to President Chung Ilce Park.

Memphis garbage woes pile up

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Mayor Henry Loeb rejected Tuesday a union proposal that would have temporarily ended a strike of sanitation workers that has almost halted garbage collections.

The union proposed that Loeb recognize the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees as official bargaining agent for sanitation department employees.

The mayor refused, saying that the two-day strike was illegal and no discussion of money or other matters would be held until the strikers returned to their jobs.

P.J. Ciampa, field staff director for the union, said the workers would be willing to delay a discussion of money matters provided the city would recognize the union.

Loeb said, "The mayor can't be in the position of bargaining with anyone who is breaching the law."

Most of the city's 1,300 sanitation department employees remained off the job for the second straight day and this city of more than 500,000 fell thousands of tons behind in garbage collections.

The walkout, to support demands for higher wages and improved working conditions, was apparently triggered by a similar work stoppage in New York City which won a pay increase for workers there.

Charles Blackburn, director of the city's public works department, said the union was seeking an hourly pay increase from $1.80 to $2.35 for laborers and from $2.10 to $3 for crew chiefs.

Rocky now seeks help from mayor

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller failed again Tuesday to gain legislative approval of his mandated end to New York's nine-day garbage strike, and Mayor John V. Lindsay was asked to get the deadlocked Albany factions off the hook.

The governor approved a telegram to the mayor in which Democratic and Republican leaders of the legislature in Albany said they would delay action on the politically sticky issue overnight—the second such delay since Rockefeller first sought their approval Monday.

They told Lindsay they were doing so "to provide you with a further opportunity to find a satisfactory conclusion to this problem."

In a statement, Rockefeller urged a permanent agreement between the city and the garbage men and added: "Anything short of that can only be considered an interim step to meet the crisis."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government began an investigation Tuesday of incidents in which bitter antiwar propaganda was sent anonymously through the mail to a woman whose husband was killed in Vietnam.

Some of the material said American servicemen fighting in Vietnam are worse than cannibals. The young widow received it twice within a month after her husband died.

A survey of mothers and widows of area servicemen who have been killed in the Vietnam theater revealed no anti-war material has been sent to the victims next of kin.

Mrs. Lester Lits, of Bushkill, mother of PFC James C. Lits who was killed in Vietnam on Oct. 4, 1966, said she hadn't received any anonymous letter.

"And I don't want to receive anything like that," she said. "My son volunteered for Vietnam. We're very proud that he served his country."

Pentagon sources said the Army's Criminal Investigations Division would take charge of the case and would call in the FBI to investigate the source of the mailings.

Timothy J. May, general counsel to the Post Office Department, said his office would examine the material to determine if there are grounds for prosecution.

The inquiry was opened after The Associated Press revealed the incidents.

"When women are contacted in this manner we're encouraging them to let us know abo ut," a Pentagon spokesman said. "This junk is all objectionable from a moral and ethical sense, but legally there is often little we can do except appeal to the sender to stop it."

"But where we find material that is actionable, we'll take action."

Only obscene or seditious material is actionable, he added.

The antiwar diatribe in question was sent by first class mail to Carol Schwollenbach, 26, of Fayetteville, N.C. She received it first at her in-laws' home in Chico, Calif., shortly after her husband, Pfc. Gary Schwollenbach, was killed, and again three weeks later at her own home near Ft. Bragg.

Both times the material came in hand-addressed envelopes postmarked Susanville, Calif., and bearing the return address: P.O. Box 497, Susanville.

That post office box is held in the name of H. L. Hummel. The same name appears at the end of an essay included in the antiwar material sent to Mrs. Schwollenbach.

Also included was a reprint of an antiwar essay which appeared last summer in The Christian Century, a nondenominational religious weekly published in Chicago.

On Dec. 19, 1967, The Christian Century filed an order for 100 reprints of the article. A spokesman for the magazine said the order for reprints was signed, "H. L. Hummel, Box 497, Susanville, Calif."

A telephone call placed to an H. L. Hummel in Susanville was answered by a woman. She said her husband is 87 and could not hear well enough to carry on a direct conversation. She relayed questions to him. He answered into the telephone himself.

The man, a sheet and blanket salesman, said he held box 497 and said he had ordered the 100 reprints of the Christian Century article "because I wanted to read them."

"Asked if he had ever mailed the reprints or other material to women whose sons or husbands were killed in Vietnam, the man said:

"I wouldn't say for sure if I didn't or did. I don't remember sending any of this to women who have lost a son or a husband. What if I did? I don't see anything wrong with it. There's no law against it, is there?"

Library attire at issue

LORETTO, Pa. (AP) — To be able to wear casual clothes in the library at St. Francis College or not to be able to wear casual clothes—that is the question.

And it's a question that has brought the students and college officials eyeball-to-eyeball in what may be the most serious confrontation in the school's 100-year history.

Robert Cox, an editor on the school paper, says 200 to 400 students plan to march on the library in defiance of a school ban on sweat shirts, jeans, sneakers and slacks with patch pockets.

He said the students have been trying for over a year to get the college to change its policy about dress in the library. Things came to a head last week when the librarian, Margaret Tobin, fined 38 students $25 apiece for violating the rule.

"The students," Cox said, "feel that the library is a place where a student should be able to relax and pursue knowledge in a leisurely manner."

Sympathy He said the student government has expressed sympathy with the cause. "We also have faculty support," he said, "but they can't actively support us because this is a very conservative college."

College officials say guidelines for appropriate attire in the library and other academic buildings are spelled out in a student handbook. The taboos do not apply in dormitories and other nonacademic facilities.

The college president, the Rev. Vincent Negerbon, said, "The means by which students can be heard and their requests examined for consideration are provided." But Cox said "every proper channel has been exhausted."

Father Negerbon says college dress regulations will be enforced.

"I do not wish our faculty or students to be cowed, passive or submissive," he said, "but I do want each group to realize the functions and responsibilities of the other groups involved in the educational mission of the college."

Stassen's platform is peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold E. Stassen described himself Tuesday as the peace candidate of the Republicans in the New Hampshire and Wisconsin presidential primaries. He said he is out to win.

Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, is making his fourth try for the GOP presidential nomination. He told a news conference there is an increasing movement nationally for him.

Asked if he hoped to win or to affect Republican policy, he replied, "Both. We are out to win."

Stassen said he would welcome joint sessions with other candidates. He said he will be at a session sponsored by the Rochester, N.H., Republican women Feb. 26 and also has invited other candidates to attend a meeting in Madison, Wis., March 28 to discuss issues.

He was asked which Republican candidate he will support if he loses the nomination. He named no one but said he would support whichever one seemed best to advance the ideas of peace Stassen has advocated.

Stassen has proposed inviting both Vietnams to membership in the United Nations, quieting down the war and keeping a military reserve position in Vietnam.

A reporter asked him: "What keeps you running when you lose so much?"

"Well, the basic things I believe in," Stassen replied. He added that it has been said Abraham Lincoln could not rest quietly while slavery continued and "I cannot rest quietly while war continues."

Stassen, who has taken to wearing a toupee, was asked about his new look, and whether he thought a toupee would get him the young vote. Stassen replied that his policies on Vietnam were getting the young people's vote.

About his new look, he said, television technicians had been complaining, "so I'm experimenting."

Stassen is now a Philadelphia lawyer.

Laughing gas kills youth

HOLLAND, Pa. (AP)—A 17-year-old boy was found dead in his bedroom Monday night, apparently the victim of an overdose of so-called laughing gas.

The victim, Charles Wardle 3rd of Northampton Township, was discovered by an uncle William Wardle of Langhorne.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wardle, were on a trip to the Bahamas.

Township Police Chief Anthony Fergione said the uncle found the boy lying on the floor between his bed and the wall.

Democratic candidates for statewide office beat the filing deadline in Harrisburg Tuesday. McCarthy in state primary

Candidates beat deadline

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania supporters of U. S. Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., entered his name Tuesday in the state's presidential primary as candidates rushed to meet the 5 p. m. filing deadline.

Democratic Party officials, including U. S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, who filed for election to a third term, said they knew of no plans to run a stand-in candidate for President Johnson.

McCarthy's papers, containing 3,400 signatures from 17 counties, were filed by Michael Malin of Philadelphia, formerly associated with the 1966 Make Shapp Governor Committee and a member of Shapp's Independent Democratic Study Policy Committee. Malin said Shapp was not associated with the McCarthy independent drive.

The presidential primary here is not binding.

Candidates also are to be nominated in the April 23 election for U. S. senator, auditor general, state treasurer, Superior Court judge, all 27 congressional seats, 25 of 50 state senate seats, and all 203 House seats.

By mid-afternoon, 12 of the 14 incumbent Democratic congressmen had filed for re-election and 12 of 13 Republicans.

Capitol punishment useless, doctor tells state lawmakers

HARRISBURG (AP) — A group of lawmakers was told Tuesday that capital punishment provided no deterrent against the crime of murder.

Dr. Thorsten Sellin, president of the Pennsylvania Council to Abolish the Penalty of Death, described murder as a crime of passion in which the killer seldom surveyed the consequences.

"Murder is a peculiar type of crime," Sellin testified before a task force of the Senate Judiciary Committee. "It is committed under circumstances almost impossible to prevent."

"In most cases, the victim is a member of the murderer's own family or is closely associated with the murderer, perhaps a paramour or a drinking companion."

"Murder usually occurs in the heat of passion or during an argument. The murderer seldom thinks of the consequences or even that he may be caught."

Sellin pointed to studies purporting to show that the murder rate in states that have abolished capital punishment was no higher than the rates in states that retained it.

The task force, studying a proposed new crimes code for Pennsylvania, closely questioned the witness, and several lawmakers, through their questions strongly indicated they disagreed with him.

Sen. George N. Wade, R-Cumberland, asked Sellin what would be the benefits in saving a convicted murderer from the electric chair.

Sellin replied that persons serving life imprisonment could become useful prison employees.

He cited one instance in which a "lifer" operated a school for fellow inmates.

"I think that is a feeble answer," Wade commented.

"Then why don't you give me your reasons for feeling the way you do," shot back Sellin.

"I'm not on trial here," Wade said.

"Neither am I," replied Sellin.

Sellin, co-director of the University of Pennsylvania's Center for Criminology Research, said capital punishment was becoming so distasteful that very few convicted murderers are being given the death sentence.

In 1967, there were two executions in the United States, one in California, the other in Colorado.

Asked about the meeting Monday, Judge Nix said, "We did not want a story because we felt it would not serve any purpose."

He said the jurors wanted "to clear up some misconceptions" as a result of the newspaper stories and also wanted the Miranda decision explained.

26 vehicles crash on Pike

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — Cars and trucks bounced around like bowling pins Tuesday in a series of skidding crashes on the snow-coated Pennsylvania Turnpike, creating a maddening traffic jam.

State troopers said 12 tractor-trailers and 14 cars piled up in the series of crashes six miles west of Somerset. Only two persons were hospitalized with injuries.

The wreckage snarled westbound traffic for two miles, forcing police to detour it over Pennsylvania 31 between Somerset and Donegal for three hours.

Eastbound traffic also was bumper-to-bumper for about a mile, but police managed to get it moving again without a detour.

Police said the trouble started when nine trailer trucks and one car piled up in the westbound lane. Within five minutes, they said, three more trailer trucks and five cars slammed together in eastbound traffic. Drivers approaching the clusters of dented cars and trucks had trouble trying to stop on the slippery pavement.

In less than a half hour, police said, eight more cars had crunched into one another in the eastbound lanes.

Road blocked "I popped out of a wind and snow storm and the first thing I saw was another tractor-trailer clear across the road in front of me," said a truck driver, Kenneth R. Thompson, 42, of Bedford.

"When I got out I found there were 11 vehicles involved. We got a guy behind me to stop by waving fuses at him. Three of us squeezed into his cab to keep warm."

"I don't know where the other fellows went, but they must have found someplace, or they'd have froze to death."

"It was snowing and the road was slick," said Thompson. "They had nothing on the road at all."

Thompson said the wreck "was just a tangled, jackknifed mass of tractor-trailers."

New roof leaks bug directors

NEWFOUNDLAND — More "leaky roof reports," a discussion of teacher-school board relationships, and plans for budgeting highlighted the February meeting of the Wallenpaupack Area Joint School Board of Directors held in the school library with William Blewett presiding.

"Excellent relationships" between the teachers and directors were noted during the meeting at which John Sutton, Wayne County Superintendent of Schools, discussed "professional negotiation" and procedures which facilitate board-teacher talks.

Maurice Bobst, Sutton and other officials will attend a hearing on House Bill 2039, including its possible effects on Wayne County School Districts on Monday, it was noted during the session.

More "leaky roof" problems showed with the discussion of a new leak, more than 100 feet in length, now having appeared in the opposite direction of the Unit "B" leak which has been patched.

"Apparently the expansion joint placement in the first leak-area has been effective," it was reported, "but now new trouble has appeared in Unit 'A' over the gymnasium and the girls' locker room."

The solicitor, architect and engineers have all been notified of the trouble. A committee including Harold Gumble, chairman; Eugene LaTourneau, and Dan Eckes, was named to take care of the matter.

The athletic committee proposed a motion, which was unanimously approved, that the board send a letter of congratulations to Coach Robert Haag and his varsity basketball squad on its winning the first half championship in the Wayne County Basketball League.

In response to a request by the Newfoundland Area Public Library Board of Directors for a discussion on books at the school, a committee including Virginia Rohrbacker, Olive Murphy and Bertha Seeley was named to meet with the library board.

Mrs. Katharine Miller, librarian at the high school and a former Newfoundland School teacher, was asked to sit in on the discussions.

A bank balance of $184,445.76 was reported, and bills totalling $227,022.12 were approved for payment.

Budget meetings for each of the committees were set up as follows: athletic, Thursday; purchasing, Wednesday, Feb. 28; building, Thursday, Feb. 29; transportation, Wednesday, March 6; finance, Monday, April 1. The administrative meeting for budget purposes will be held at 8 p.m. in the library with the exception of the finance session, which will be at 7:30 p.m., preceding the regular board meeting.

The hot lunch committee has already met for budget purposes. The unit's report on a 20-day period in January showed a total of 12,352 student lunches and 333 adults served.

Pen Argyl board okays applications

PEN ARGYL — The Pen Argyl Area Chapter of the American Field Service met in the social rooms of the Presbyterian Church to approve the host family application forms.

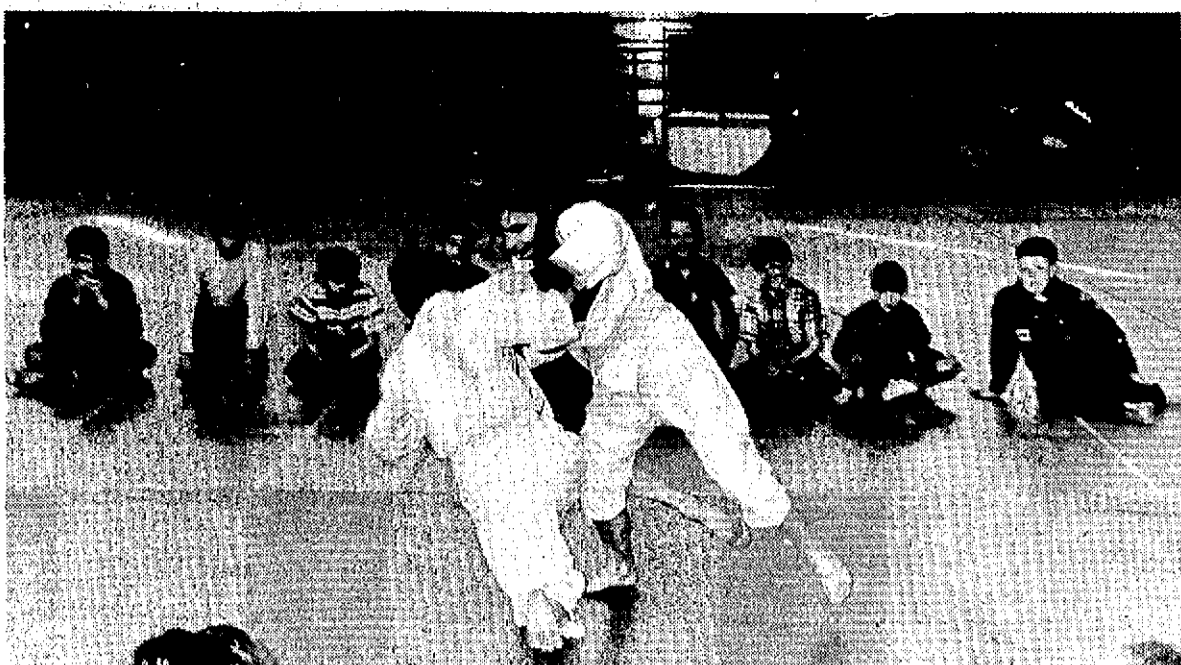

Representatives of the Pen Argyl School District and a number of community organizations were in attendance.

Mrs. Richard Nixon, president, appointed a nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. Daniel Horn, Mrs. Ralph Couch, and Marjorie May, to present a slate of officers at the March 10 meeting. Officers are elected for a two-year term.

Selection chairman Mrs. John Oliver, home selection chairman, reported that Oystein Braathen, their AFS son from Norway, had visited them recently.

Daniel Ruggiero, treasurer, had received a telephone call from Sigurdur Birks, their ICYE son from Iceland. Mrs. Daniel Horn reported that a Cristl Schmitt, their AFS daughter in Argentina, is engaged. Gilmore Honey stated that Chris Hertzamp, last year's AFS student from Chile, has been accepted as a pre-medical student at Santiago University.

Refreshments were served.

Bangor, Easton, Nazareth schools to close for 'Harrisburg march'

EASTON — Schools in the Easton, Nazareth and Bangor Area systems will be closed March 4, permitting organized groups to take part in a Harrisburg demonstration for higher state subsidies and salaries.

The closing of the schools for the one-day demonstration was agreed upon Monday night at meetings involving school directors and local affiliates of the Pennsylvania State Education Associations in the three districts.

Local directors and teacher groups avoided calling the closing a "strike." The state has an anti-strike law covering public employees.

In the Easton Area case, the March 4 closing was recommended by the education committee of the board — subject to ratification Feb. 26 by the joint school committee. David H. Miller, school board solicitor, said that under the circumstances the board has no way of forcing teachers to report for duty March 4.

He commented that because the teachers made it clear that they would be absent for one day only, the committee is "not treating this legally as a strike."

The Nazareth Area board voted unanimously to permit the local teachers association to go to Harrisburg March 4 and to close the schools, adjusting the school calendar if necessary.

Approval also was given by the Bangor Area board for the closing but it was specified that the last day must be made up.

The board has cooperated with the teachers in the past to the full extent," Willeyer said, "and this is reflected in our salary scale."

The system's starting salary is $5,499 a year. The PSEA is seeking a state minimum of $6,000 by Sept. 1969.

The Easton Area committee said nothing about making up the last day of classes.

'Booms' may sound in area

STROUDSBURG — If windows rattle and area houses get a slight case of the shakes during the early dawn hours of Friday, don't be alarmed, just pull the covers over your head and chalk it up to high flying boys playing cowboys and Indians with "sonic booms."

United States Air Force B-52 and B-58 bombers of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) will join with air defense forces Defense Command (NORAD) in an aerospace defense training exercise overlying parts of the United States and Canada during early Friday morning.

Nine states Aircraft, operating at high and low altitudes, will span nine states, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania, with several B-58 "Hustler" bombers flying high altitude supersonic missions near cities and towns in these states.

Residents may hear, disturbing but harmless high altitude sonic booms. NORAD fighter aircraft will simulate aircraft interception missions to meet the exercise bombers. No interference with normal civil air traffic is expected.

Seven depart for service

STROUDSBURG — Seven area men left Tuesday for induction into the armed forces. The men were ordered to report by Local Board 105, Stroudsburg.

Those leaving were Alfred Smith, Scotrun; Frank L. Sidlosky Jr., East Stroudsburg; William A. Newhart, Tannersville; David B. McClelland, Stroudsburg, RD 5; Carl W. Martens, Swiftwater; Jodie P. Davenport, Stroudsburg, and Edwin L. Seese, Canadensis.

BRODHEADSVILLE — The "Wet-Down" for the new 1968 fire truck of the West End Fire Co. was held here Sunday afternoon with at least 12 different fire organizations of the county represented.

The truck which was purchased last December, represents an investment of $22,000, said fire chief Glenn Snyder. The truck features a front mounted pump, 750 gallons per minute, with 1,000 feet of three-inch hose and 300 feet of inch-and-a-half hose.

Dog 'attack' suit basis

STROUDSBURG — An alleged "attack" by a pair of collies at the Stroudsburg-Pocono Airport has resulted in a damage suit filed against Howard and Mary Hamlen, former owners of the facility.

According to a complaint filed in Monroe County Court Monday, Robert E. Van Pool, East Stroudsburg, RD 2, is seeking in excess of $10,000 as a result of the occurrence, June 29.

Van Horn claims he was knocked down by the dogs allegedly kept at the airport by the Hamlens and suffered shock, bruises and a number of other injuries.

So you can forget whatever carburetor problems you've had in the past—dirty, flooding, jamming, you name it—because there's no more carburetor. What you get instead is quick, sure starts and efficient engine operation under all conditions.

That's because electronic fuel injection is a whole new way to make car engines run. The closest thing to it is a $325 optional extra on a car that costs almost twice as much. But electronic fuel injection is standard equipment on Fastbacks at $2,179* and on Squarebacks at $2,349*.

All of which should make you feel the same way about the carburetor as you do about putting antifreeze and water into the radiator. You can learn to live without it.

Teacher 'march' reasonable action

The members of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn. — at least their leaders — are in a frame of mind for action. As long as this is the case, it's hard to fault the decision to ask for a school holiday and hold a mass demonstration in Harrisburg March 4.

In one view this is a drastic move, especially for the Education Association which has a reputation for measured and mild movement, but its not an unsettling decision nor a step that should disrupt hometown education.

There may be some arguments on principle but from a practical sense, the association has enabled the schools to plan in advance to skip a school day in March. Most administrators, we would expect, will recover the time by lopping a day off spring vacation.

So far the teacher action is considerate and not in a class with literal "strikes" against society by public employees (including teachers) at other times.

No students will be denied a chance to learn or caused to drop behind competitors; no necessary service such as garbage collection or fire protection is suspended.

If the demonstration stays as clean as it appears to be planned, teachers will not have to struggle home to explain things to taxpayers and students. Teachers, like parents, must set good examples if they are to be as valuable to a community as they should be and want to be. The association is making a calm start on what may be a rough trip.

State fails to share burden of education

Speaking of education and remembering how pleased most of us were to hear that Governor Shafer plans no increase in taxes, we may run into an impasse.

This would not specifically to connected with the Education Association's plan to raise the teacher minimum to $6,000 over three years. This increase, if mandated, could be passed on to local school boards. But it is not likely that this would happen. The state would have to pitch in with extra aid and it is not doing its fair share now.

When they are on the stump seeking our votes, state-wide politicians are fond of suggesting that the state should share equally in the cost of local education. But once in office, the administration never gets around to it. And it's getting harder and harder to catch up without a major tax increase.

A presentation by Fred Hedding, president of the State School Boards Assn., to the Assembly last month estimates that the state last year provided 42 per cent of the costs of local education with the home districts providing 55 per cent and the federal government the remainder.

Hedding hoped the legislature wouldn't prescribe higher teacher salaries without providing state money to cover the extra cost. He admits teacher salaries should be raised as should those of other employees of schools but along with requesting coverage from the state he suggests that teachers evaluate their abbreviated schedule and discover ways to participate in year around educational programs which will give them a "full time commitment to education."

"The plain facts of life," said Hedding, "are that no body of workers — teachers included — are likely to get a 12-months salary level for less than a 12-months work effort."

"Safe within sanctuary of an ordered society, dreaming of glory, they play at being revolutionaries and fancy themselves rising to positions of command atop the debris as the structures of society come crashing down," he said.

Diplomats switch to poverty corps

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has approved a program to transfer hundreds of State Department personnel and foreign service officers to the administration's anti-poverty program.

The "diplomatic anti-poverty corps," as it is being referred to inside the administration, is the brainchild of Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach.

The controversial program will be launched later this month with an announcement from the White House or the State Department and Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which administers the war against poverty.

As a starter, two dozen foreign service officers will be transferred to the OEO and assigned to the anti-poverty agency's headquarters here and to regional and state offices throughout the country.

If these assignments do not cause an adverse reaction in Congress, other State Department personnel will be shifted to OEO in March and April.

Salaries of the diplomatic anti-poverty fighters will be paid out of OEO funds, although they will be permitted to keep their foreign service status and retirement rights.

Members of the House Labor Committee, who are probing the unannounced program, report that it was sold to the President by Katzenbach and White House aide Joseph A. Califano. Also, they say, it apparently has the backing of Secretary of State Rusk and OEO Director Sargent Shriver.

Katzenbach and Califano reportedly sold the idea to the President on the grounds that the OEO service would help acquaint U. S. diplomats with social problems in this country and better prepare them to represent the U.S. abroad.

ANOTHER VIEW — Administration insiders give wholly different reasons for the program.

One State Department official, who has attended several of the "planning sessions" to prepare the program, claims two major objectives are behind it:

ONE — The transfers are part of a plan to extend the influence and thinking of the State Department into domestic programs. Foreign service officers will be given policy-making positions in OEO to help initiate and direct new social programs developed and tested by the Agency for International Development overseas.

What of tax reform?

WASHINGTON — Tax reform will remain a subject of much debate and little doing in the foreseeable future. Now that immediate action on the administration's surtax proposals has been indefinitely postponed by the House Ways and Means Committee, that group will turn to other portions of the Johnson tax package.

The Johnson suggestions on tax reform have been vague almost to the point of studiedness. In his Economic Report of Jan. 26, 1967, the President did ask for changes to deal with abuses by tax-exempt foundations. The specifics promised then have never been forwarded to the Congress, although the Treasury Department says a message is being prepared.

From his long legislative experience, Johnson is well aware that on taxes the administration proposes and Congress disposes. And congressional opposition to tax reform is proverbial.

Russell Long (D La.), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, will be the principal speaker at a tax reform conference in Washington sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Sen. Long follows the Populist tradition of his father Huey. But, as the Wall Street Journal has observed: "More than once his considerable legislative skills have come to the rescue of some corporation that thinks it's being downgraded by an unjust paragraph in the tax laws."

In any event, Long is used to waiting on the House Ways and Means Committee where, under the Constitution, tax measures originate. The arbiter of taxes is the chairman of that group, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D Ark.).

Mills on Jan. 23 said extension of the automobile and telephone excise taxes, as asked by the administration, "has to be done."

When the Kennedy administration in 1963 proposed a substantial slice in individual and corporate taxes plus some mild tax reform, the House bought the reductions but rejected most of the reforms. The New Republic noted: "The lengthy hearings before the House Ways and Means and the Senate Finance Committees were dominated by witnesses from the oil and gas industry, the stock exchanges, real estate, coal mining, timber companies and other interests."

Perhaps the most publicized tax loophole is the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D Wis.), author of a sweeping tax reform, would reduce this by a first step of 15 per cent for oil and 41 other minerals. Reuss's 10-point program would bring in $4 billion the first year and $5 billion to $8 billion thereafter, which is what President Johnson's 10 per cent surcharge would do.

Tax reform is little understood by the general public and hence has little political pull. On the other hand, those who have most to gain by maintaining loopholes in present tax laws can afford to hire batteries of lobbyists and attorneys to spread their case before Congress.

Exemptions to be whittled

(Third in a series on the background and work thus far of the Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention.)

By JIM RILEY

Record Managing Editor

HARRISBURG — Obtaining finances for Pennsylvania's future needs is a task of the Taxation and Finance Committee at the current Constitutional Convention, here in the House of Representatives.

The size of the task may be measured by the fact that 19 per cent of Pennsylvania's property was tax exempt in 1957 and in some of the state's municipalities as much as 50 per cent of the property is exempt.

As of this writing 22 or 23 per cent of the property located within the boundaries of Pennsylvania may be tax exempt — or almost one quarter of the state.

Non-profit tax exemptions were set up in the last Constitutional Convention in 1873. Now the trend is toward finding new taxable items and as you might have guessed public utilities are high on the agenda.

Much of the public utility property across the state has been tax exempt for many years, although such was not stated by the Constitutional Convention of 1873.

However, places of religious worship were exempt from taxation in 1873. Right now the big item in this category of the Constitutional Convention is to tighten up on tax exempt properties.

It is almost a certainty that property owned by public utility companies not used for the actual production of the utility product, and land owned by churches, but not used for actual worship, will be taxed in the future. . . . The Taxation and Finance Committee, if it weathers expected storms on the convention floor, will also provide that a portion of the revenues from the state gross receipts tax on public utilities be diverted to local municipalities, in lieu of changing to a local real estate tax system.

There will be a tightening of real estate tax exemptions for religious, charitable, veterans and public properties, gearing the exemptions to use rather than ownership. New laws will base tax exemptions for aged, poor and disabled on the element of need.

There will surely be a repeal of the state's current one-million dollar debt limit, in favor of a new ceiling pegged directly to average state income for the previous five years, multiplied by 1.5. Authority System borrowing will be brought under the new debt limits, or otherwise require voter approval.

The committee suggests that auditing of state expenses be split between the auditor general and the state treasurer. In the future it would be required that balanced operating budgets be featured each year for the state and also reasonable detail on financial spending and taxation plans for at least five years in advance, all be subject to adoption by the legislature.

According to current proposals, local governments would be allowed to grant special tax relief to encourage redevelopment, reconstruction and rehabilitation, especially in the area of urban housing.

At present one million dollars is the borrowing limit for budgets, with an unlimited ceiling for capital improvements. Under the new plans there would be no limit on borrowing, as long as tax anticipation guarantees needed support. Borrowing for capital improvement would be allowed as long as it didn't total more than one and one-half times the anticipated tax income for a period of five years.

The planned debt limit is $2.3 billion, while the current limit is $1.4 billion. Debt limits grow as taxes expand. Anything above the new limit must be approved by public vote.

The debts would be for a maximum of 40 years. A strong accounting section of the government would be demanded, featuring close examination, with separate pre-audit and post-audit checks.

There would be three kinds of budgets under future plans. They are a balanced operating budget, capital budget and a five-year financial plan to be submitted annually. Long term planning and disclosures to the public, in an effort to keep the people informed, would be features of the new constitution.

NEXT — Legislative Apportionment.

Don MacLean

Hurray for Mt. PFC

WASHINGTON — Nobody is particularly surprised when, say, a spectacular falls in Africa is named after Queen Victoria or a mountain is named after a president or something. But I was somewhat amused to learn that Mount Kring, in Antarctica, is named after Staff Sergeant A. L. Kring, USMC.

What is even more interesting is the fact that S-Sgt. Kring did not discover this particular mountain. It is possible that he has never even seen it. He has been awarded this honor because he has served in the general area while a member of the U. S. Navy's "Operation Deep Freeze."

As it turns out, there is something called the U. S. Board of Geographic Names and it has named literally hundreds of South Polar topographical features after sailors and Marines who have served there at one time or another.

Naturally, most of the big things, such as mountain ranges and bays, are named for officers. However, the enlisted personnel have not done badly. For instance, Everett Range is named after Commander William H. Everett, while Springer Peak is named after Pharmacist Mate, Second Class, Michael J. Springer.

There would seem to be no limit to things to name in this vast, silent, windswept, white continent. There are, for example, mountains, icefalls, coasts, glaciers peaks, rocks inlets bluffs, ranges, bays, ridges, domes spurs, cliffs, points, buttresses and nunataks.

At this point in our thrilling story it occurs to me that one or two of you might not know what a nunatak is.

To be truthful, I was somewhat vague on it myself, so I called the U. S. Navy and asked. A nunatak is a small mountain covered with a sheet of ice. It is an Eskimo version of a Swedish word and was first used at the North Pole; it was carried to the South Pole by sailors who went both places. There is relatively little difference between an Arctic nunatak, you've seen them all.

But, to get on with it, the United States area of the Antarctic now is liberally sprinkled with "down home" names. There's Mount Holt, named after Lieut. Ronald L. Holt, and Cheeks Nunatak, named in honor of Airman First Class Nobel L. Cheeks. Also, Mount Hucksby, named, of course, for Commander Donnie W. Hucksby.

Geography students of the future may be surprised to learn that Mount Kazukaitis is near the South Pole and not in Greece. It's named for Chief Pharmacist Mate Frank Kazukaitis. The Navy assures me that if it ever finds any trees in Little America it will call them MacLean Woods.

ASIDE — All of the shooting in downtown Saigon reminded one congressman of Washington on a Saturday night.

Congress may remove the gold cover from the dollar. Why not? It's already taxing the roofs from our heads.

It's just as well Bobby Kennedy is postponing his presidential campaign until 1972; this will give him time to get a haircut.

Maybe we should let Ho Chi Minh have all of Vietnam and then conduct a guerrilla war against him.

Late winter is a cold period, followed by riots and tear gas.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Diabetes and pills

I have been treated for mild diabetes for two years. The pill that I have been taking by mouth seem to control the condition up to now. Recently, I have been told that the only way that I now can be treated is with injections of insulin. I absolutely refuse to do this and want to know if I can continue to take the pills by myself.

Mrs. A. S. G., New York

Dear Mrs. G.: You are one of the favored few whose diabetes has been controlled by taking medication by mouth. Apparently, it has been effective, but, in the judgment of your physician, injections of insulin are now the only way to control your diabetic disorder.

You, of course, do not have a medical choice of drugs. You do have the right to make your own decision about whether you want to remain in good health or to invite the probable complications of diabetes that are inevitable.

You can be sure that when once your diabetes gets out of hand because of neglect or your failure to take the insulin injections, you will eventually find them to be unavoidable.

Injections certainly are not pleasant. Neither is a severe disease. Millions of people are living perfectly normal, healthy, productive lives because insulin was discovered and because it is being administered at regular intervals according to the direction of the physician.

There are few diseases that need as much care and careful scrutiny as does diabetes. You will, I am certain, follow your doctor's advice when once you realize with greater maturity that the unpleasantness of these painless injections are more than compensated by your sustained good health.

After an operation six weeks ago I was told that they found acetone in my urine. Is this a dangerous condition? Will it return and cause trouble at some future time?

Mrs. L. F., Oklahoma

Dear Mrs. F.: Finding a trace of acetone in the urine is not uncommon following surgery, especially before the patient is fully able to take adequate amounts of fluid. Sometimes the acetone is suspected by a sweetish odor to the breath during a period of fluid imbalance. This is technically known as acidosis and is readily corrected by introducing fluids by mouth or by vein.

The presence of acetone in a single specimen does not mean that there is a disorder of the kidneys or that there is an underlying disease to account for it. There is no reason to believe that your health will in any way be affected by the acetone that once was present or that it will even occur at any time in the future.

There are other findings in the urine that may be temporary such as the presence of albumin. Standing on your feet at work for a long period of time may produce temporary albumin in the urine. This has no importance. The same is true of the occasional finding of sugar, pus, casts or even blood in a single specimen.

It is for this reason that any abnormal finding in the urine means that the reason for it must be investigated and followed by repeated examination of the urine. In your case there is little or no likelihood that this will ever recur.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH — The family doctor or general practitioner, known affectionately as the "GP," is still the supporting bulwark of all medicine in America.

Stories Behind Words

By William Penfield

Utopian

Early in the 16th century Sir Thomas More of England wrote a political romance entitled "Utopia." The name means "no place," for it was formed from the Greek "ou" (not) and "topos" (a place).

"Utopia" deals with an imaginary island by the same name on which every aspect of life is perfect. More used the perfection of the imaginary island to point up the evils of the society of his day.

"Utopia" led to the adjective "utopian" — visionary, highly desirable but impracticable.

Ocean Tang canapes — frozen pre-baked waffles with a creamy crabmeat topping go piping hot from oven to party table.

For entertaining

Canapes and nibblers

LINDA PIPHER
Pocono Record
Home Economist

Stroudsburg — Happy Valentine's Day! If you've been looking for new ideas for canapes and nibblers, I've been collecting some recipes for you. One of the newest ideas I've seen is to use the frozen pre-baked waffles for the base of a crab meat spread.

The crab spread can be made hours ahead of time, then spread on the waffle pieces when ready to serve. It takes only seven minutes to bake the canape which you serve hot, garnished with a snip of parsley, green olive slice or with a radish rose.

Ocean Tang Canapes
One 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese, soft
1/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt
One 6 1/2 oz. can crab meat, drained and flaked
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

One 9 oz. pkg. frozen prebaked waffles
Heat oven to 400 degrees.
Beat together cream cheese, milk, ground horseradish, Worcestershire sauce and salt until smooth. Stir in crab meat and pimiento. Cut frozen waffles in half. Spread with crab meat mixture. Place on cookie sheet. Bake in the preheat oven about seven minutes or until hot. Place on cooling rack, garnish as desired and serve hot.

A secret ingredient in a canape is found to start conversation rolling, and I'll bet your guests will ask the inevitable question, "What's in this?" when they taste either of these next two recipes. Both appetizers can be made ahead. The ham-rice pinwheels must be made ahead for best results and the cheese and rice balls can be prepared in advance and cooked at the last minute or at the table. Or they can be fried shortly before the party and kept in a warm oven until time to insert the sticks and serve. Makes 2 dozen.

Cheese and Rice Balls
2 cups hot cooked rice
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons horseradish
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup finely crushed dry rice cereal
Cool rice to lukewarm. Combine eggs, horseradish, salt, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and pepper in a mixing bowl. Add cooled rice and cheese and mix thoroughly. Chill. Roll mixture into small balls about 3/4 inch in diameter. Roll in crushed rice cereal. Fry in deep hot fat (375 degree) until golden brown, about three minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve piping hot on sticks. Makes about 6 dozen.

Ham-Rice Pinwheels
2 packages (3 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
1 cup cooked rice
1 tablespoon finely chopped green olives
3 tablespoons grated onion
1 1/2 tablespoons horseradish
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 to 8 thin slices baked or boiled ham

Beat cheese until fluffy. Add rice, olives, onion, horseradish, pickle relish and Worcestershire sauce. Blend well. Spread meat slices with rice mixture and roll up tightly. Skewer with toothpicks. Cover and chill several hours. At serving time, cut into 1 inch slices.
A molded spread is easy on the hostess for it can be made the day before entertaining and it's nice for the guests because it lasts so good. Oil the mold slightly so that the crab mixture will come out easily.

Molded Crab Imperial
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon lemon peel
1/4 cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
2 cups real mayonnaise
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
2 1/2 oz. cans crabmeat, well-drained
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/4 cup pimiento
Lemon wedges

In small saucepan, soften gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Heat slowly, stirring constantly until thoroughly dissolved. Combine with lemon peel and juice, mayonnaise, onion and pimiento. Chill slightly thickened, but not too thick. Coarsely flake crabmeat, and add to chilled mixture along with celery. Pour into 1 quart mold; chill until firm. Unmold onto chilled serving plate. Chopped olives can be used instead of the pimiento, but eliminate salt. Serve with crackers, garnish with cherry tomatoes and lemon wedges.

Here's a new version of the popular dill dip; shrimp is added!

Dilly Shrimp Dip
1 can (4 1/2 or 5 oz.) shrimp
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup mayonnaise
8 oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon Accent
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
Drain shrimp; chop finely. Gradually blend milk and mayonnaise into cream cheese; beat until smooth. Add onion, Accent, salt, dill, and Tabasco; mix well. Stir in shrimp. Chill until serving time. If desired, garnish with whole shrimp and sprig of dill. Serve with crackers or chips. Yields about 1 1/2 cups.

First Constitutional Convention relived

Stroudsburg — With February "American History Month," Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, Monroe County Librarian, chose to review Catherine Bowen's "Miracle at Philadelphia" for the Women's Club of the Stroudsburg at their meeting this week at the Stroud Community House.

The day-by-day account of the Constitutional Convention during the hottest summer in Philadelphia's history from May to September, 1787, the miracle was that the delegates, representing many factional and personal differences were able to come up with a Constitution that has endured for 200 years.

Mrs. Kane filled in the place of earlier documents: The Declaration of Independence in 1776 and the Articles of Confederation in 1781. Mrs. Bowen's book begins with the selection of the delegates to the convention, and incorporates original material and historical comments.

"She has the gift of being able to project backwards, so that we can recreate the atmosphere of the convention, as well as feel the delegates themselves as living personalities," Mrs. Kane said.

Library report
The Monroe County Public Library was at first a project of the Women's Civic Club and has been closely associated with the club ever since. Mrs. Arthur Slee, club representative on the Library Board, reported on the library which now has 400,000 books as well as a new collection of recordings. She praised the library staff which has coped with ever increasing use without adding to the staff.

Mrs. Kane, who has been with the library for 32 of the 52 years of existence, also spoke on the library, which loaned 180,000 books last year.

New VP
At the business meeting with Mrs. Henry Surrey presiding, Mrs. Harvey Pullen was elected third vice president to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. James Smith who has returned to teaching.

Mrs. Evan Reese gave the legislative report of legislation to come before the state legislature when it reconvenes. Mrs. Fred Titus, fine arts committee, reported on an exhibition of mosaics to open in the Allentown Museum this Sunday.

Following the meeting, Leonard Harris, business manager of the new Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center to open at Onawa Lodge, Mountainhome on June 23, spoke to the group.

He traced the history of the Music Camp at Lake Minnewaska, N. Y., and its expansion in relocating in the Poconos. The six weeks season will run from June 23 to Aug. 4. They also hope to have the Pocono Music Festival operating for at least five nights each week with concerts scheduled by the Festival Symphony Orchestra, the Curtis String Quartet, the Festival Band and Chorus and guest artists.

The meeting was preceded by a dessert, served from a Lincoln table. Mrs. Foster S. Minnich, Mrs. Myrton Finney and Mrs. T. Manning Curtis were chairmen of the hospitality committee which included Mrs. Frank McGuire, Mrs. John Gebbie, Mrs. Evan Reese, Mrs. Howard Rockefeller and Mrs. Elwood Hinte.

Miss Carol Jean Bensley

Fiance is leaving for Vietnam duty

Dingmans Ferry — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bensley of Dingmans Ferry, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Jean, to Spec. 4 Marvin A. Clewell.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clewell of Bushkill. Miss Bensley is a student at East Stroudsburg High School. Her fiance was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and is serving in the U. S. Army. He will leave for service in Vietnam this month.

Familiarity may not breed contempt but it can breed parking tickets, as some of the women attending the Women's Club meeting at the Stroud Community House can testify.

Martha Circle has meeting in Portland

Portland — The Martha Circle of the Woman's Association of the Portland - Mount Bethel Community Presbyterian Church met in the social rooms of the church on Monday night.

Announcement was made of the Spring meeting of the Association in the social rooms of the church on March 12, with the Martha Circle as hostesses.

Mrs. Joann Lloyd was leader of the study on Mark. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Hiram Delp, Mrs. Warren Hahn Jr., Miss Ruth Jones, Mrs. C. J. Kneeling, Mrs. Thomas Nangle, Mrs. Paul Sigafuss, Mrs. Lela Williams and the hostess, Mrs. Lloyd.

The next meeting of the Circle will be held March 4 at the home of Miss Ruth Jones on Delaware Ave. with Miss Jones and Mrs. Nangle as hostesses.

Dorcas Society holds meeting

Mount Pocono — The new program, "Looking Ahead 1968" presented by the Dorcas Society here at the Lutheran Church recently.

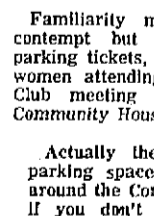

It was revealed during the course of the meeting that announcements of fellowship dates will be made later.

Topics of the program were "Legend of the Dogwood Tree," "Story of Albert Durer's Praying Hands" and "Why Ivy is Always Green."

which are largely empty during the week.

However, during the bitter cold weather, it's a chilly hike, especially in go-to-meeting hats and slippers, so some members have been parking on Ninth St. The ones who followed that custom this week were in for a surprise.

Sometime between January and February meetings, one hour parking signs have gone up, which nobody seems to have noticed. The ones who got tickets will know, though.

Sometimes I think we fall into the same trap in our relationships with people — not according to our nearest and dearest the same courtesy and attention that we automatically extend to a new acquaintance.

But maybe that's just as well. Part of the joy of old friends is the comfortable silences which nobody feels impelled to break with bright chatter. But it wouldn't hurt if, sometimes, I remembered to renew my lipstick even if I weren't leaving for a meeting.

Miss Daubert weds M. J. Featherman

Stroudsburg — Miss Dolores E. Daubert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Daubert of Stroudsburg RD 1 became the bride of Martin J. Featherman on Feb. 3 in St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

Rev. Ruland Leopold performed the double ring ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white embroidered brocade with an empire bodice and A-line skirt and matching floor-length train. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and crystal. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pinks and lilies.

Mrs. Sylvia Nicoletti of East Stroudsburg as matron of honor wore an empire-style gown in deep rose with a matching headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white pinks.

Mrs. Ruthann Rumbold of Easton and Mrs. Gladys Teel of Bangor were bridesmaids. They wore gowns in the same style in moss green and also carried cascade bouquets of yellow and white pinks.

Alfred Rumbold of Easton was best man. Ushers were Wayne Daubert, brother of the bride, Stroudsburg; Elwood Teel, Locke Heights, Bangor; Gary Vough of Bangor and David Gates of Baltimore, Md.

James Ealey was soloist and Richard Lakey organist.

A reception was held at the Blue Valley Farm Show Building for 160 guests. The hall was decorated with white bells and streamers. Music was furnished by The Hoedowners.

The bride works in the office of the Big N Department Store, Stroudsburg and her husband at the R & R Toy Factory, Pen Argyl.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside at Locke Heights, Bangor.

Young moderns

Rent or buy home?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Should young newlyweds assume the responsibilities of home ownership, asks a 19-year-old bride?

She has lived in a big city and has dreamed of owning a little house away from all the traffic. Her husband, 24, has just returned from Vietnam and they are renting an apartment.

"Our parents think home ownership is too much of a burden and they are trying to discourage us but, we really want to do it."

They aren't even stymied by the down payment — they can gather up enough cash from savings and relatives, but they don't have the vaguest idea how much it will cost to maintain a house or how much of a house they can afford. Is there an easy way to estimate it, she asks.

A general rule of thumb in estimating whether you can afford a house is the one that "A house should cost no more than 2 1/2 times the annual income." If one is earning $7,000 a year, the house cost must not exceed $17,500.

For example, if one could put down $5,000 on a house leaving a $12,500 mortgage, amortizing it over a 20-year period at 5 1/2 per cent interest would put monthly carrying charges at $86.

This may well be much less than one must pay in rent but, a home must be maintained. It must be kept in good repair, and the cost of utilities must be figured.

Clean and dry ribs of celery, removing the leafy part. Cut into wedges that are several inches long. Stuff with a mixture of cream cheese mixed with finely chopped pimiento-stuffed olives. A small package of cream cheese will fill about 24 wedges of the celery.

If one must borrow the down payment or assume a second mortgage to get it from a bank or individual, the financial burden is increased and may be so overwhelming that the house can't be enjoyed because of the scrimping.

Many young people can't buy a house because they are bogged down with debts, installment payments on home furnishings, cars and so on.

But for young people, who can afford it, home ownership offers many advantages, even though there may be a little penny-pinching in the early years.

1. It provides tax benefits. (You can deduct interest on mortgage payments which can be a sizable chunk in the early years.)

2. It is a way to build equity. You might find it difficult to save or invest regularly as a non-owner but a house obliges you to meet the mortgage. In 20 years, more or less, you will own your home free and clear. If you must borrow money for emergencies, your home can be offered as collateral. Some people borrow on their paid-off homes to educate their children.

3. A house provides you with roots in a community, a voice in local government and so on.

4. A home gives you a chance to major in maturity as you cope with responsibilities of ownership and financial obligations.

There are some disadvantages in owning your own home. One must be expected to meet emergency bills instigated by pipe failure, roof leaks, furnace breakdown. For that reason, young people are better off with a new house that has fewer "bugs" even though they might get less house for their money.

Progress report on church pastor helped found

East Stroudsburg — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church will hear of the church in Japan which their pastor founded at their meeting on Wednesday night in the worship chapel.

The program "Mission to Japan" will feature Rev. and Mrs. A. Kroehler who are in charge of the church in Japan which Rev. and Mrs. Harold Eaton helped to establish in 1935 with Rev. and Mrs. Eaton joining in the service.

A business meeting at 7:30 will precede the program. Hostesses will be members of circle 3.

Temple Israel supper part of package deal

Stroudsburg — A spaghetti supper will be the second "package deal" of the season for the Temple Israel Sisterhood. It will be held on Sunday, Feb. 18, at 6:30 p.m. in the Temple Social Hall.

Mrs. Tom Breslau and Mrs. Seymour Pollan, co-chairmen, announced that the meal is being prepared by volunteer members of the organization.

The dinner will be followed by games. Guests and children of Temple members are welcome. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Tom Breslau by Wednesday, Feb. 14.

Plans for the supper were announced by the president, Mrs. Sol Rothstein, at the February Sisterhood meeting.

Pvt. Robert Jensen died from bullet

STROUDSBURG — Funeral arrangements for Marine Pvt. Robert A. Jensen, 19, Stroudsburg, RD 1, who was killed Feb. 7 by enemy rifle fire in Quang Tri Province, South Vietnam, are being made by the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home, Stroudsburg. It was originally believed that the youth had been killed when he stepped on a land mine. However, a telegram from the U.S. Department of Defense indicated that he was killed by a bullet from an enemy gun while on patrol.

F. A. Nidlund, dies at 65

EAST STROUDSBURG — Fred A. Nidlund Sr., 65, of Tannersville, died Tuesday in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

He was born in New York City and lived in Monroe County the past 21 years and was a carpenter by trade.

Mr. Nidlund was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Tannersville; True Course Lodge 1077, F&AM, New York City; and the Pocono Township Fire Company.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Hotner Nidlund, at home; a son, Fred A. Nidlund Jr., at home; and a daughter, Caryl Nidlund, also at home.

Services will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Gantzhor Funeral Home with the Rev. Charles Adams, Jr., officiating.

Burial will be in the Tannersville Union Cemetery.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Wednesday after 7 p.m.

Burial was in Long Pond Cemetery with the Rev. Kenneth Gay officiating.

Palbearers were Newman Berger, Arlington Moyer, Donald Marshall, Raymond Moyer, Raymond Keiper and Frank Gardner.

Contractor files suit

STROUDSBURG — A Stroudsburg, RD 3, man has filed suit in Monroe County Court seeking more than $4,000 in an alleged unpaid balance to a $6,072 bill for the installation of electrical equipment.

According to the suit filed Monday, Carl Price, Stroudsburg, RD 3, is seeking the amount from Daniel Wise, Seotrun.

The plaintiff maintains he was contracted to furnish electrical requirements in the Poconohas Resort Motel, allegedly owned by the defendant.

According to the complaint, Wise only paid $2,000 of the original bill leaving the balance of $4,072.

Maxwell H. Cohen is attorney for the plaintiff.

Eldred keeps property tax

KUNKLETOWN — Louis Smith, secretary of the Eldred Township supervisors, announced that the supervisors have drawn up a proposed budget for 1968.

The group has decided to retain the three and one-half mill property tax, the five dollar per capita tax, and the one per cent wage tax.

The budget is now open for public inspection.

Pike crash cites need for barrier

PHILADELPHIA — A five-vehicle collision last Sunday on the Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike emphasized the need for a medial rail barrier on the high speed road, according to the Keystone Automobile Club.

"We firmly believe that Sunday's tragedy is conclusive evidence that those who use the superhighway must be given more adequate protection against similar cross-over accidents," Samuel T. Milliken, vice president and manager of the automobile club, said.

"The failure of the Northeast Extension to pay its way must not prevent steps being taken to make the extension safe for its users. Construction of a full median barrier along the entire Northeastern Extension is one of the steps that must be taken."

Milliken said the failure of the Extension to provide the expected revenue should not be a handicap.

Clergy told to cooperate

STROUDSBURG — Rev. David G. High, Stroudsburg Methodist Church, has been named the first president of the newly formed Monroe County Clergy Association, which met for the first time Tuesday in the Stroudsburg YMCA.

The new pilot association replaces the Monroe County Ministerium which dissolved last October.

The group is made up of clergymen representing Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths.

Guest speaker, Msgr. Eugene J. Clark, Director of Ecumenical Affairs, Diocese of Scranton, told the well-attended meeting, "We cannot continue to live in the past," and stressed the need for understanding and cooperation among members of the clergy.

Using a historical approach during his 45-minute talk, Msgr. Clark said there has been no large or mass conversions such as in the Middle Ages since the church began to divide and form separate religious groups.

He said the divisions came about due to "pride, sins, and the circumstances of the times," and added the need for the clergy in this present day to present a more, "friendly" relationship among themselves. "There cannot be a reform in the church unless it is a reform of the whole church," he said, and said, "the whole idea of renewal is reunion with Christ."

Msgr. Clark said God's words should be a guideline for an ecumenical movement. "We should be obedient to the word of God," he said, and said he, "couldn't see why some clergymen were opposed to ecumenism."

"There is good and truth in all religions," he said, "and there is good in all men of good will who know God." "As we look into the future what we need is for the clergy to educate themselves and be educated in the spirit of Ecumenism," Msgr. Clark added.

Other officers selected during the two-hour morning session were Msgr. Thomas Cawley, St. Matthews RC Church, vice president; Rev. Joseph Leggieri, secretary, and Rev. Robert Galligan, corresponding secretary.

Following the morning meeting a luncheon was held in the YMCA with a discussion on the possible inclusion of laymen and laywomen into the new organization.

The informality of the group was reflected in a listing of committee members and the clergy were referred to by shortened first names and no titles.

The following clergymen were named to committees and taken directly from the list:

Institutional committee: Charles Adams, chairman, Wesley Meixell, Norman Savage, Luther Markin, James Flynn, Harold Eaton B. H. Hostetter, and Frank Wingerter.

Interfaith Activity committee: Bill Wunder, chairman, C. A. McHugh, Russell Walters, Leonard Drury, Sam MacConaghy, John Roberts, Ralph Roth, and Ken Matthews.

Judicial committee: Rabbi Weinberg, chairman, Joseph Quinn and John O. Nelson.

Constitutional and By-Laws Committee: Vernon Murray, chairman, Bob Gibson, James Cross, Bill Leopold, Elmer Meissner.

Social Action committee: Jack Bendick, chairman, Phil Beck, Harold Burkett, Bill Jurus, John Nesbitt, Ron Samuels, Allen Taylor, Rex Worthing, Sam Huffard, and David Burg.

Publicity Committee: Paul Van Elk, chairman, Kenneth Gay, Bill Giles, Mel Pingle, Jack Hlu, Clyde Sholtzberger.

Radio Committee: Roger Ruhman, chairman, John Walsh, Arch Park, and Andrew Maloney.

Finance committee: Bill Leopold, chairman, Jim Madison, Pete Emmons, and Joseph Leggieri.

The new organization has not limited itself to the three faiths but is reported to be interested in having any other groups such as Buddhists, Hindus, Moslems and other faiths represented in the association.

E-burg water stumps sleuths

By PETE GRADY

Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg water problem turned into a detective story Tuesday night with the last chapter yet to be written and the main culprits still at large as borough council with the aid of a water cleaning company president, narrowed down the suspects to a borough street and a 10-inch line.

Norman S. Primus, president of the National Water Main Cleaning Co., Newark, N.J., told council that he believed the chief culprit are pipes under Prospect St. and not those at East Brown St., which have been cleaned. However, Brown St. residents complain of rusty water.

After Carl L. Michaels, borough superintendent, explained to council and Primus that a 10-inch, 1,100-foot water line feeding from the reservoir into the borough could also be responsible for the "lubricous" (swelled) state of certain borough water pipes, council agreed with Primus that cleaning the Prospect St. pipeline and the 10-inch line should receive highest priority.

Council agreed that the water company should start cleaning the pipes about the first of March.

Certain borough residents have complained of rusty, foul-smelling water since last summer. The borough has already spent more than $8,000 in cleaning numerous pipelines but the problem persists.

Irate housewives have plagued borough council during the past several monthly meetings. The evidence has been presented in jars, vials, pots and pans and clothes that appear as though they have been rinsed in a light orange dye.

Mrs. Alice LaBadie of 341 Merlin St. wished she could have come to the council meeting last night but she had a bad case of the flu.

"I go to my aunt's on West Main St., Stroudsburg, every day and bring the drinking and cooking water back in orange juice gallon bottles," Mrs. LaBadie said.

"We're still eating off paper plates. To take a bath in our water, you close your eyes and jump in and jump right out. If I can't get satisfaction soon, I'm going to write to the Public Utilities Commission in Harrisburg."

Mrs. LaBadie has not paid her water rent bill for the last three months and she doesn't intend to pay until the quality and color of the water is cleaned up.

Mrs. Patricia Cramer of 384 Broadhead Ave., and Mrs. Agnes Mutchler of 330 Orchard St. complained to council about the water condition Tuesday night.

Mrs. Cramer said, "My husband gets nauseated smelling it. Sometimes it is a foamy, milky substance, other times it's dull orange."

"The pipes were cleaned on my street (Orchard) and the water's worse," Mrs. Mutchler said.

Primus told council that cleaning of the water pipes is only good for about 15 years, but that most towns under a 50,000 population clean rather than relining the pipes because the relining is much more expensive.

He pinpointed Prospect St. as the culprit.

"The pipe is probably heavily corroded with rust," he said. "Water dynamics is a strange thing. Water behaves erratically in pipes in its turning and surging under different pressures."

"We're pumping out a lot of money and we still don't know where the problem lies," council member Pearly Hunt said.

Primus recommended that the pipe cleaning be done on the weekend so as not to disturb the weekday functions of certain business plants when the water has to be turned off for so many hours each day.

He estimated that the cleaning of Prospect Street water pipe and the 10-inch pipe could be completed in two days.

"We're sympathetic to what they're trying to do," Roberts said, and added, "I personally see no harm in the change of dates."

Irving Sommer, president of the East Stroudsburg School Board, said the adjustment would probably be the course of action taken by the board.

He said no formal action will be taken by the board until a meeting is held Feb. 28 following an American Association of School Administrators' Convention in Atlantic City. Sommer said a meeting with teachers will probably be held within the next few days.

He said a "gentleman's agreement," with the school teachers on the matter has been made.

He indicated the board had "mixed feelings" on the matter and hinted there might be a close vote on the matter.

James Price, Pocono Mountain president, said the calendar change would also be the most probable course of action taken by the board at tonight's meeting, but declined to comment on the possible vote.

"I wouldn't be surprised if that's what happens," Price said of the date change.

Members of the Pennsylvania State Education Association Saturday in Harrisburg, approved the one-day walkout for March 4, the day the General Assembly reconvenes.

Local PSEA branches were told to negotiate with their school boards for a day off without pay with 25 per cent or more of the PSEA membership to gather for the protest march in Harrisburg.

A regular meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 20, in the firehouse. Officers include: Joseph Sparrow, president; Albert Altomese, vice president; and George Hummer, treasurer.

Since it started six years ago, the association has bought more than $3,000 worth of playground equipment and an additional five acres of property, said Mrs. Gladys Kresge, secretary.

Mrs. Kresge said the association would like to increase the Ross and Hamilton township membership.

The request of Donald Egan of the Lake Valhalla Estates to have the township take over some of the roads in his development has not been accepted yet, said Mrs. Mosier.

The proposal is being considered by the township's solicitor.

SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP — The supervisors of Smithfield Township held their regular meeting Tuesday night in the home of the secretary, Harriet Mosier, in East Stroudsburg and acted on routine business.

The budget will be considered during a special meeting to be announced by the secretary.

Henryville woman tells of threat by intruder

By RICK METHOT

Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — A Henryville woman who was allegedly robbed of diamonds, cash, and checks by three masked bandits last October testified for more than two hours Tuesday as the prosecution opened its case against John Joseph McGuire, Philadelphia, in the Monroe County Court trial.

Mrs. Mary Pick, who claims she was robbed of about $500 in cash, $400 in endorsed checks, and several thousand dollars in diamonds, told a jury of nine men and three women of the events of Oct. 14, 1967, when she claims her home was entered by the three men who made off with her valuables contained in a leather pouch she left lying on a table near the front door.

Questioned by District Attorney Philip Williams, Mrs. Pick said she is the owner of a small home in the Lake Alpine area and also operates a small gift shop in Tannersville.

According to her testimony, she left the shop about 8 p.m. and was taken to her home by friends.

She had entered the house and placed the pouch containing the money on a table and then made a cup of tea and sat down to watch television on the Saturday night.

She said the first noise she heard was a "rattle on the front lawn," and when she walked back to the kitchen she saw a masked man through the window.

Mrs. Pick described the man as wearing a black jacket and a stocking over his face for a mask. She said she then saw the two other men dressed with similar masks when the door was kicked open and its glass window shattered.

Mrs. Pick said her first reaction was "frozen" fear and then asking, "Dear God what's the meaning of this?"

The woman then told the jury she screamed and begged him

(indicating the defendant) not to kill her, "Dear God don't shoot, please don't kill me,"

She then told a hushed courtroom that McGuire shoved his hand in her face and told her to, "shut up or I'll let you have it right between the eyes..."

According to the witness, she finally convinced the gunman, whom she claims was carrying a sawed off shotgun, to allow her to go to the bathroom.

The following clergymen were named to committees and taken directly from the list:

Welfare council considers future of federal funds

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Health and Welfare Council discussed plans for its services with consideration of existing and needed facilities and services, during its second official meeting held Monday night in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Dr. F. P. Donatelli Jr., president of the council, said that preparations were made for future use of federal funds for a survey of needed services in the Pocono area.

The study would consider all facilities and services required to follow up treatment and care of individuals after release from hospital care.

Dr. Donatelli said the Burnley Workshop is doing follow-up work on individuals but there is a greater need for such services in all areas of medical attention.

A discussion considered possible out-patient oxygen service to allow the release of hospital beds occupied by individuals hospitalized for just that purpose only.

Contributions

The Heart Association chapter and the General Hospital of Monroe County contributed $100 each to "keep the council above water."

A bulletin will be issued to all affiliated agencies of the council to inform them of its activities and for solicitation of their participation in the programs, said Dr. Donatelli.

The council, dedicated to the health and welfare of all people in the Poconos, will act as an information and referral agency for area people to be directed to the proper service organization.

It will organize the work of all service agencies, thus avoiding duplication of these agencies. It will also help determine the present and future health and welfare needs of the Pocono Mountain area.

"He is the man to lead the party," Hunt said, and I'll support him 100 per cent."

"He supported me over the years and I'll continue to support Stu," the chairman said.

Hunt affirmed there was "no pressure" involved in the step-down and said he would work as "strong as ever" for the party.

Mel Hunt bows out

Pipher unopposed for Democratic county chairman post

By RICK METHOT

Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Stuart F. Pipher, former county commissioner, will be the unopposed candidate for the Chairmanship of the Monroe County Democratic Committee as the result of a surprise move Tuesday afternoon.

Pipher, defeated in a bid for re-election to the board of commissioners last November, filed his petition with the county board of elections shortly before 4:30 Tuesday, the last day for filing.

Present Democratic Chairman Mel Hunt was also present in the courthouse and waited until the deadline before revealing he would "bow out" and not seek re-election, as party chairman.

Also present were Democratic County Commissioner Arlington Martin and Former County Solicitor Samuel W. Newman.

Hunt, who had announced his intention of again seeking the post several weeks ago, said he would fully support Pipher in his new position.

It had been indicated by informed party sources that following the GOP landslide in November, a shakeup in the party regime was in the making.

Several names were hinted as potential chairman candidates and it was reported that petitions had been circulated on behalf of Pipher.

Aware

Monday night Pipher said he was aware of the petitions circulating on his behalf but said he was not actively seeking the post and declined further comment.

The former minority commissioner turned in his own petitions Tuesday and had no comment except to say he "was glad" to be active again and added that he had no immediate plans for the party at present.

In a short statement delivered in the courthouse, Hunt said he believes Pipher "possesses talent," and has the leadership needed for the post of party chairman.

"He is the man to lead the party," Hunt said, and I'll support him 100 per cent."

"He supported me over the years and I'll continue to support Stu," the chairman said.

Hunt affirmed there was "no pressure" involved in the step-down and said he would work as "strong as ever" for the party.

"I won't take a back seat," Hunt claimed, and smilingly stuffed his unused petition into his pocket saying he would keep it "for a memento."

Republican County Committee Chairman Dr. Evan C. Reese filed his petition last week and will also run unopposed for the GOP position.

A large number of committeewomen and committeemen filed petitions Tuesday, the final day for the procedure.

42-point second half carries Bangor past Cavs, 67-43

EAST STROUDSBURG — Bangor High exploded for 42 points in the second half Tuesday night as it kept its record clean in the second half game in the Lehigh-Northampton League's Northern Division with a 67-43 victory over East Stroudsburg.

Now 18-2 overall, the Slayers had only an eight-point lead, 47-39, early in the fourth period.

It was here that sophomore Ridge Hughes broke the Cavaliers' back as he made two steals, hit two key baskets and set up two more field goals that helped Bangor open a 63-43 lead.

Frank Scagliotta led Bangor's balanced attack with 26 points. Brad Farino added 15 and Dave Buskirk, 11. The Hood brothers, John and Matt, had 19 and 11 in that order for East Stroudsburg.

The Cavaliers looked like a beaten club in the first period as they fell behind 5-0, 12-3 and 17-6 to the pressing Slayers. In the period Eastburg (8-14) went 3½ minutes without a point, almost five without a field goal and had only two two-pointers in the entire eight minute period.

Meanwhile Frank Scagliotta and Brad Farino were harassing the Cavs forcing bad passes, wild shots and stealing the ball and setting up easy baskets. Scagliotta had seven points and Farino four in the period.

A left-handed hook by Matt Hood and two fouls by older brother John cut Bangor's lead to 19-12 after 80 seconds of the second period.

Then with Bangor leading 22-12 East Stroudsburg put together seven straight points, the final two on a driving lay-up by Joe Garvia to cut the gap to 23-19.

Kim Bellis halted the spurt with one of two fouls with 2:06 left but Matt Hood came back with a lay-up. Farino and John Hood traded baskets to close the first half scoring. In the final 30 seconds Garvia re-injured his knee and sat on the bench the entire second half.

Bangor scored the first six points of the second half to open a 31-23 lead. Then with the count, 33-26, Farino hit a foul and second later converted a steal into an easy two-point.

But Bangor then switched into a full-court zone press and scored the next 11 points to take a 47-34 lead after three wild periods. Scagliotta had three twisting lay-ups in the spurt.

Cav frosh finish with 14-0 mark
EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg freshman basketball team completed an undefeated season Tuesday with a 50-27 rout of Bangor. The Cavs of coach Doug Schoonover compiled a 14-0 record in capturing the Lehigh-Northampton League's freshman title.

Eastburg broke open the game early by grabbing a 15-7 lead after the first period and increasing it to 29-13 at intermission. In the second half the Cavs outscored Bangor, 27-14.

Nick Ullo, with 16 points, was the only Cav in double figures. Bill Baker had 14 in a losing effort for the Slayers.

Mounties, minus Williams, lose by four to Palmerton

STROUDSBURG — Through-out the season, the play of Arlie Williams has overshadowed that of the rest of team. With Williams missing Tuesday night's game with Palmerton, it appeared the Mounties were in for a long night. But John Marvin and Ron Oney picked up the slack though and kept Stroudsburg (0-21) in the game all the way before it finally fell by a 65-61 count.

The first period action was slow for the first five minutes, as the lead changed hands four times. With 2:10 remaining, Oney hit from the corner to give Stroudsburg the lead 8-8. Marvin then rolled off five straight points, to give the host team a first period lead of 14-9. In the period, Marvin tallied eight points, and Oney six.

Both teams traded baskets rather evenly in the second period, and Stroudsburg walked off the floor at half time with a 26-24 lead. It was a new Blue Bomber team as the third period began. Paced by sophomore Tony Choy, who had a tremendous night, Palmerton scored 10 points to jump out in front 34-28. The lead was widened to as much as 11 points, but the Mounties constantly battled back. Choy threw in 13 points in the quarter. With the score 42-33 Palmerton, Mel Abel grabbed a rebound and flipped it to Marty Phillips. Phillips in turn tossed a long pass to Marvin, who was all alone under the basket just as he got the shot off, a Palmerton player crashed hard into him. Marvin fell very hard to the floor, and had to sit out the remainder of the quarter.

At this point Palmerton held a six-point lead, which it opened to 10 and held off Stroudsburg's comeback attempts.

For the night, Marvin and Oney each had 16 points. Abel notched 13, but more important pulled down 14 rebounds. Choy finished with 25 points to pace all scorers, and was followed closely by Charles Noll who garnered 20.

The Stroudsburg J.V.'s could not break a devastating full court press, and fell for the thirteenth straight time 71-47. Ken Brown and Craig Potcher each scored 13 for Stroudsburg. Palmerton was paced by Noll and Kocher with 18 points apiece.

Parkland nips PA on fouls, 59-56

OREFIELD — A 23 for 28 performance from the foul line carried Parkland to a 59-56 win over Pen Argyl in the Lehigh-Northampton League's Northern Division Tuesday night.

The Knights had four more field goals than the Trojans (22-18) but had the lead only twice. Early in the fourth period a Bob Kauffman field goal gave the Knights (8-11) a 50-49 lead. But Parkland came back with six straight points for a 55-50 advantage.

Field goals by Parsons and Kauffman closed the gap to 57-56 but Chris Linde scored the game's final field goal to kill PA's hopes.

Parsons finished with 25 points and 17 rebounds to lead all scorers. Linde had 22 for Parkland.

Parkland also prevailed in the junior varsity contest, 49-48.

AFPA to step out of picture

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bernie Parrish announced Tuesday that his Teamsters-backed American Federation of Professional Athletes will step out of the pro football picture.

"We want to give the (National Football League) Players Association the opportunity to negotiate the best contract possible with the owners," Parrish said. "We hate to step out of the picture, but it is the best thing for the players at this point."

He said if the AFPA filed it would tie everything up and make it well into next season before the situation could be clarified.

Pirates dump Pleasant Valley

FERNDALE — Palisades moved out of the cellar in the Lehigh-Northampton League's Southern Division Tuesday night with a 55-41 win over winless Pleasant Valley.

Opening lead—five of clubs. The suit-preference signal is a highly valuable weapon in defense, but it should not be permitted to dominate one's thinking. Here is a case where a careless play by West permitted declarer to make a contract that should have gone down.

West led his singleton club on which dummy played the six, East the ace, and South the jack. East returned the ten of clubs, which West ruffed.

Since East had returned his highest club, showing strength in hearts rather than diamonds, West now led a low heart. (Had East preferred a diamond return at trick three, he would have led back his lowest club.)

As a result of this play, South made the contract. Declarer won the heart with the ace, ruffed a heart, entered dummy with a trump, ruffed another heart, returned to dummy with a trump, and ruffed still another heart.

Declarer having ruffed three rounds of hearts, the jack was now established as a trick. South drew West's last trump crossed to the king of clubs, and discarded a diamond on the jack of hearts to bring home the contract. The only tricks he lost were a club, a ruff and a diamond.

Now let's go back to West's heart return at trick three. He would have been far better off had he returned a trump instead of mechanically obeying East's signal.

West should have realized that there was no urgency about returning a heart, since, if South had a heart loser, the defense would eventually get it anyway.

It was much more important to return a trump at this stage in order to kill one of dummy's entries before declarer could start to establish the hearts. With a trump return, South would have lost two diamond tricks and gone down one.

Ann Landers

The miniskirt temptation

Dear Ann Landers: I have had enough of you. I am a 17-year-old boy who thinks your advice to the girl whose steady boyfriend has "wandering hands" is all wet. Instead of telling the girl to give the eight-handed idiot "a clomp in the chops" or however it is you worded it, why don't you put the blame where it belongs — on the girl?

No guy in his right mind ever starts to paw a perfect lady. The chick who suddenly finds a guy's hands all over her has asked for it in one way or another.

Sometimes it's not in words, it's the way a girl gets herself together. The miniskirts are a pretty good eyeful when a girl is standing up. When she is sitting down, it's like she is wearing a bikini. No normal guy can look at all that flesh and not get ideas.

Transparent blouses and sweaters, and jeans that fit like sausages casings are worn to get guys excited, and when a normal guy gets excited, he wants to do more than just look.

So please, Ann Landers, since you are supposed to give advice give it to the girls. They are the ones who need it.

TIED OF BEING TURNED ON

Dear Tied: There's a great deal of truth in what you say and I'm glad you took the time to say it. The moral of the story is simply this, girls: Don't let your clothes issue any invitations you don't mean to fulfill. When you turn a guy on, he can be awfully hard to turn off.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a school teacher who feels parents in this country need a better understanding of where we fit into the lives of their children. Will you please help by printing this letter?

1. Teachers generally choose the profession because they care about children.

2. Teachers try to treat all students alike. If a teacher is unusually suspicious of a child, it is because that child has behaved in a way that has caused the teacher to mistrust him.

3. Teachers do not "give" grades. They only record the quality of the work the student has produced.

4. Children with good manners and a record for achievement will be given preferential consideration and special honors and privileges.

5. Teachers grieve almost as much as parents when a student doesn't make the grade. They feel that they have failed the student and it makes them sad because they love all children and want them to succeed.

SOMEONE WHO CARES IN AUSTIN

Dear Someone: The teachers you describe are the GOOD teachers. Although there are a great many more good teachers than poor ones, you must agree that not every teacher measures up to your lofty standards.

Business finds aid in guide

STROUDSBURG — Businessmen will find answers to a wide range of questions about Federal income, excise and employment taxes in the 1968 edition of "Tax Guide for Small Business," Seymour I. Friedman, District Director of Internal Revenue for Eastern Pennsylvania, said Tuesday.

This year's booklet contains a tax calendar for 1968 listing all dates on which the various tax and information returns and payments are due. It also features a checklist for businessmen to rapidly identify taxes for which they may be liable, where information on the type of tax may be located in the "Guide," and what forms are needed to report and pay the tax.

The "Guide" also explains how Federal tax laws apply to various forms of businesses such as the sole proprietor, partnership or corporation. Tax treatment of special problems, with examples, is provided for manufacturers, retailers, and professional men.

New plea on charge

STROUDSBURG — A Kunkletown man, changed a previous not guilty plea to guilty in Monroe County Court Monday to charges of driving while under license suspension.

Larry Christman, Kunkletown, RD 1, was charged with the offense by Thaddeus Nagle, Stroudsburg State Police.

President Judge Arlington W. Williams deferred sentence pending pre-sentence investigation.

Cy Barrett Says

Creating rust barrier

LEAR CY: How was that again about automobile values being lost through rust? How much can a Ziebart rust-proofing franchise make a man, and what's the investment and address of their headquarters?

ORIMMON

DEAR CRIMSON: The U. S. department of commerce has estimated corrosion loss in this country at approximately 10 billion dollars annually. Roger F. Waindle, president of the Ziebart Process corporation, auto rust-proofers (16135 Harper, Detroit), estimates "about 50 per cent of this amount is in the automotive field." Car Life magazine agrees with him on the 5 billion dollar annual auto - rusting - out bills. A Ziebart auto rust-proofing franchise investment runs around $20,000. Cars rust-proofed in this way are guaranteed for five years or 50,000 miles against corrosion but it doesn't seem to bother the franchisees much. (Evidently this auto rust-proofing system works.) Mr. Waindle tells me, "A manager of a Ziebart service center can and most often does earn in excess of $25,000 yearly following the first year. That is, after expenses and before personal income taxes." With that kind of income, most people would be eager to pay taxes, but don't get on it paying yours, Crimmon. Ziebart, like any franchise, demands that the individual mesh his preferences, abilities, habits, and finances with the opportunity... which may or may not be there. And... investigate yourself as much as the franchise. You may meet someone you aren't particularly fond of, which could be the start of something troublesome. And just remember making money in your own business is more than switchin on the rust - proofing machine or putting a franchise on automatic. Who's going to kick your self - starter button?

CY

DEAR CY: I heard a news commentator talking about the government breaking up big businesses. He said a certain committee in the senate was printing a Fortune magazine directory, showing the size and growth of our country's 500 largest businesses.

What I want to know is how Fortune magazine got the job done at government expense with a U.S. Senate endorsement.

MEGLER

DEAR MEGLER:

Fortune magazine isn't really raking in a fortune for letting Uncle Sam reprint its statistics for free. Actually, senators needed this material. In page II of the volume, it says: "Indeed, the need is such that if the Fortune directories had not existed, they would have had to be invented." The book with all those statistics on big business from the year 1955 thru 1965 is known as "Economic Concentration Hearings Before The Subcommittee On Antitrust and Monopoly of The Committee On The Judiciary... United States Senate... Eighty-Ninth and Ninetieth Congresses." The title may be high priced, but you can have an entire copy... all 390 pages of it... from the U.S. government printing office for $1.25. Government writers like to get into the act, even when they aren't inventing manuscripts for politicians, which makes sense. At the rate of one word per man, that title kept two dozen of Uncle Sam's best writers busy. CY

Cresco girl to present voice recital at Bucknell

Miss Leslie Jane Geer

CRESCO — Leslie J. Geer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Geer, Laurel Pine Road, Cresco, is one of the seniors in the music education curriculum at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, to give a duo voice recital in Vaughan Literature Building auditorium at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 25.

A graduate of the Pocono Mountain Joint High School, she is studying with Robert K. Goss, voice teacher at Bucknell. Miss Geer, a soprano, will sing selections by Barber, Schumann and Bach.

During the first semester of the current year, Miss Geer completed her practice teaching in Lewisburg area schools. She is the secretary of the University Chorale, a member of Mr. Phi Epsilon, national honorary music society, and of the Opera Workshop.
